

Two new pamphlets in Messrs. Putnam's Economic Monographs (Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon) contain a strong and clear paper upon Andrew Jackson and the Bank of the United States, which Mr. Wm. L. Royall makes a résumé of the history of paper money in the United States, and discourses with great good sense and readiness upon the currency

Holy Songs, Carols and Sacred Ballads, (Boston: Roberts Brothers; Portland: Loring,

Short & Harmon) is a volume of devotional poetry, which for fervor, sweetness and perfect poetic art is unexcelled in its department. No book of sacred verse has been published of which the literary beauty equals this; and its delicate, haunting cadences, its impassioned and simple phrases are akin to the tender majesty of Bach's Passion Music. It is a work widely removed from the conventional and untutored manner of many books of hymns, and is as exquisite in its art as it is emotional, refined and sincere in its quality of thought.

Dr. Thomas Dunn English's Ballads, among which many favorites in magazine literature will be recognized, are published in Messrs. Harper's Half-Hour Series. (Portland, Loring Short & Harmon.)

In Messrs. Harper's Franklin Square Library (Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon) have appeared recently Miss Braddon's Mistletoe Bough, a collection of ingenious and fascinating stories for the holidays; Donna Quixote,

The Practical Taxidermist is a volume written for the benefit of naturalists and sportsmen by Joseph H. Batty, who accompanied the western expedition, and who has been employed by government and by various museums and colleges to collect and preserve specimens. The volume need not be further commended to the class of readers who will enjoy its pages.

"What annoyance?" asks the tenant.
"Why have you let a pig all night?" is all the tenant has to say.

Cleveland Leader: "Never leave what you undertake until you can reach your arm's around it and clinch your hands on the other side," says a recently published book for young men. Very good advice: but what if she screams?

If you are in a theatre when it takes fire on the stage you have at least seven minutes to Chauncey M. Depew told this story at the recent New England dinner: In the Berkshire hills there was a funeral. The woman who mingles curiosity with pity was there with the mourners. To the afflicted widow, in a melancholy voice, she said, "When did you get your new eight day clock?" "I ain't got no new eight day clock," responded the bereaved woman. "Why, what is that in the corner! Ain't that an eight day clock?" persisted the the deceased. We stood it on end in the corner to make room for the mourners".

Yonkers Statesman: Young man to photographer:—"Are my pictures done?" Artist:—"Let's see," carefully scanning the young man's face and then the photographs he holds in his hand; "what's the name?" Young Man (in astonishment):—"Jones, sir." Artist (having discovered the name on them):—"Oh, yes,

New York Commercial Advertiser: Brooklyn school examination à la mode—"Who is the President of the United States?" Silence. "Who is the present Governor of the State of New York?" More silence. "Who is the Governor-elect of the State of New York?" Deaf silence. "Who won the last walking-match?" Chorus of nursing Presidents—"R-o-u-n-d-l-l!"

The very, very latest is: "Oh! go freeze your teeth and give your tongue a sleigh ride."

Incentives to matrimony.—"You ought to marry." "Never." "I know the very girl." "Let me alone." "She is young." "Then she is shy." "Beautiful." "The more dangerous." "Of good family." "Then she is proud." "Tender-hearted." "Then she is

The Syracuse Times has arrived at the conclusion that a smile on the face is worth two in the tumbler.

Detroit Free Press: After a Griswold barber had finished shaving a stranger yesterday the man asked what the charge was, and when told that it was 10 cents, he asked: "Don't you have any wholesale rates? Wouldn't you give me three shaves for 25 cents?" "Yes," shave me twice more!" said the stranger as he climbed back into the chair. The barber lashed, red, shaved, recombed his hair and cried "brush!" and the man reseated himself and took a third shave without a word. His face had a lobster color when he got through, but he handed out a quarter and said: "I don't know but it would have been better to take seven shaves for half a dollar, but this will do just now.
